

A node deploys the smart contract to the blockchain

Miners verify the transaction

The block is then added to the chain which records a non reversible history of transactions in the ledger

